Khrushchev Relinquishes World Communism Rule; Says He'll Guide Russia

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (UPI)—A week of startling statements by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev made it clear today that he is the unchallenged leader of the Soviet Union but is giving up one-man control of world Communism.

At the same time, he has proclaimed in a speech to Russian Communist leaders that all Communist parties are equal and that Moscow no longer claims leadership of the movement.

THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE meeting on the Soviet Agricultural problem ended yesterday. Khrushchev's 20,000-word speech, dealing with the recent Communist summit conference, was published Wednesday night.

Before closing its eighth-day debate, the powerful Central Committee approved a Khrushchev plan for decentralizing the farm program in an attempt to boost production. The plan is expected to shift control of agriculture from the Central Ministry to regional councils.

KHRUSHCHEV'S abandonment of formal leadership of the Communist Bloc was outlined in his speech to Russian party theoreticians and propagandists on Jan. 8.

"The Communist Party of the Soviet Union does not lead other Communists," Khrushchev said. "There is no central and subordinate party in the Communist movement. It is impossible to lead all Socialist and all Communist parties from any single center."

REGARDING China, Khrushchev said in his speech, "In its relations with the Communist party of China, our party proceeds always from the premise of friendship of the two great peoples. The task of our two parties is of exceptional importance in the struggle for the triumph of our common cause."

Citing the growth of the Communist camp since 1917, Khrushchev expressed confidence that the movement would continue to penetrate throughout the world, particularly in Africa and Latin America.

KHRUSHCHEV said that the balance of strength had shifted to the Communist bloc and the Communists, therefore, would press for disarmament and coexistence. He said the United States has become a declining power and the collapse of world capitalism is not far off. In intensifying their efforts to expand their influence, the Communists will support fully all national armed revolutions, Khrushchev said.

Sin Does Not Just Happen, Elder Burton Tells Audience

"Sin does not just happen—it is caused."

This was the message of Elder Theodore M. Burton, new assistant to the Council of Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He spoke Wednesday at devotional services in Smith Fieldhouse.

ELDER BURTON, a former chemistry professor, compared sin to chemical reactions, which likewise do not just happen but are caused.

He told of a chemist who gradually increased the amount of uranium until he reached the critical mass causing an explosion.

Elder Burton said Objects do not burn spontaneously. Similarly, many people try to "see how far they can go without being hurt" and sometimes go too far.

THE ENTIRE world is dangerous, he said. To go off on any errand, Elder Burton said, any object must be activated. Activation energy is needed for a reaction. The amount of energy must be built up until the energy hump is overcome.

Similarly, before a person sins he must overcome the energy hump God has given for protection—the conscience. It can be overcome gradually by committing sins and then progressively larger sins.

WREN CAMP parked on a hill overcome the fence holding it back, it continues downhill.

Similarly, once a person overcomes his conscience, "nothing can save him," the new assistant warned.

As in chemical reactions, there are catalysts that help overcome the energy barrier or conscience, he continued. Two of these are alcohol and pornographic movies.

SPONTANEOUS combustion, caused by a slow, gradual buildup of energy which eventually overcomes the energy hump can also occur with sin. If a person continues to sin, his evil thoughts within him, he will "practically explode," according to Elder Burton.

To combat evil thoughts, he suggested carrying a small card with a poem or Scripture.

He also urged, "When evil thoughts come, do beautiful things."

Students to Get Exam Cards At Assemblies

Forum and devotional examination cards will be distributed to Brigham Young University students next Monday and Wednesday, according to Dr. Alma P. Johnson, dean of Admissions and Records.

The names of the speakers will be listed on the examination cards and students will fill out and turn in the card for the appropriate grade.

STUDENTS who do not complete either the devotional or forum examination card, even though registered for them, will not have the course shown or grade recorded on either the semester or term on their permanent academic records.

Credit is given for either the forum or devotional assemblies on a semester basis. Previously a student could earn a one-year credit for forum or devotional to receive credit. One-half semester unit of credit is offered for each course.

VETERANS who enrolled for either the forum or devotional assemblies and will not receive credit for them should report to Donald L. Starr, in charge of veterans' services.

ANDRE PREVIN

Conductor, Pianist Will Play

Versatile concert pianist Andre Previn will present the next Brigham Young University-Community Concert Jan. 26. The concert will begin at 8:15 in Smith Fieldhouse.

Previn has fitted himself into many places. He has performed more than seven albums, has presented concerts over the nation in such cities as New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

IN ADDITION, he was conductor and arranger for the motion pictures "Three Little Words," "Kiss Me Kate," "It's Alive," "Fair Weather," "Kiss and Gigi."

He composed and conducted the musical scores for "Kiss" and "Invitation to the Dance," for which he composed a full-length original ballet.

PREVIN WAS born in Berlin, Germany, where he started studying music from his father at the age of six.

His family came to the United States when he was in his teens, and he started his musical career with MGM studios immediately after graduating from high school.

ASBYU Financial Report

Wonder where your money goes? The first official financial report of the Associated Students of Brigham Young University to be published is printed below, and shows the current financial situation of the studentbody up to Dec. 31, 1960.

Accounting procedures of ASBYU differ somewhat from more standard means, and may need some explanation. The first column, "Appropriated," represents the amount appropriated for each budget area. In some cases (e.g. Homecoming, Jr. Prom), accounts exist even though no appropriation appears because the activities are self-sustaining.

The "Encumbered" column represents amounts set aside to pay accounts payable. At the time of each purchase an entry is made to this account based on the estimated cost of the commodities. When the account is finally paid, the amount is removed from the "Encumbered" column and entered in the "Expendited" column.

The "Free Balance" represents the appropriation less the total encumbered and expended.

Amounts in parentheses in the "Encumbered" and "Expendited" columns indicate additions of income over and above expenditures, while an item in parentheses in the "Free Balance" column shown an overdraft in the account.

A large number of accounts, such as lyceums, Program Bureau, Opera, etc., appear to have no balance left for operations. This is because the entire amount appropriated by ASBYU is transferred from studentbody funds into separate working accounts. For example, the budget for University Theater is transferred to the Speech and Drama Dept. for their own administration. Thus, the ASBYU ledgers will show a zero balance when in reality much of the amount may not have been expended.

Special Report, World Affairs Urg Universities to Face Responsibility

by Brent Gramp
University Assoc. News Editor

In the United States must face up to an urgent need to enlarge their contributions to the nation's understanding and competence in international affairs, according to a high-powered report from the Committee on the University and World Affairs.

They must also help the developing countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America to extend and strengthen their own educational systems, says the report.

The committee was financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation at the rate of one of the Department of State in an effort to clarify the international role of universities.

Members Listed

Members of the committee included three university presidents, a cabinet officer, a former Senator, two presidents of major foundations, and two leaders of American industry. Dean Rusk, Secretary of State-designate by John F. Kennedy was a member of the committee, as were Senator J. W. Fulbright, and Arthur S. Flemming.

"The American university," says the report, "is caught in a ruinous cycle that shakes its traditions of scholarship and tests its ability to adapt and grow."

It recognized that even though higher institutions have taken on many new and expanded activities, such as courses in U.S. relations with other countries, the universities' response to change has been largely apathetic and unplanned.

Coordinating Organization

"What is required now is a single organization based upon American universities and colleges, but able to take into account broad national needs. It would provide a mechanism through which universities and colleges can cooperate together, planning the development and employment of educational competence in world affairs, and the systematic gathering and appraisal of growing educational experience in world affairs."

This agency would facilitate communication among agencies of government, business and foundations in the U.S. and institutions of other nations.

The report points out that our federal government must rely on American universities for planning and carrying out important educational projects in the international field and for training a large proportion of the administrative, diplomatic and technicians who serve abroad.

Because this field is so important, it is felt that the government should be able to determine the policies under which it participates.

Not Government Agency

While thus recognizing the legitimate role of government leadership, the report goes on to say: "Universities cannot be expected to serve as mere agents of government; they must be granted autonomy and long term assurance of adequate financing if they are to perform tasks imposed by government in a manner setting their educational function and purpose."

Government measures which would be helpful in bringing about more effective cooperation with universities include the granting of educational competence at all levels, enhancement of the prestige and functions of the Department of State and more attention from the Presidents and members of his cabinet to this problem."

Colleges Strengthen Work

Spelling out what American universities can do to strengthen their work in world affairs, the committee suggested that all U.S. institutions of higher learning should make studies of world affairs an important and permanent dimension of their undergraduate programs.

They should also improve the competence of their graduate and professional schools to teach and to conduct research on international aspects of their professions.

Other suggestions call for an increase in the production of trained specialists, specialized programs for students from foreign countries, inclusion of foreign students and activities with educational institutions in other countries.

Congress Support Programs

In analyzing the role of government, the committee points out that the Congress and the Executive should support on a continuing and flexible basis, university programs of foreign assistance. In accomplishing this, it would be necessary for the government to spend a larger portion of the budget on the universities' world affairs activities.

As to the role of the individual states, the report says that "State support for the world affairs programs of universities and colleges is appropriate and necessary." Due attention to world affairs is necessary in any university worthy of the name, and state universities need the understanding, support and funds from state legislatures to carry out their educational functions.

Private foundations should assist the universities to achieve more adequate programs in world affairs. In particular, foundations should make grants that enable universities and colleges to undertake experimental activities."

Foundations Must Pioneer "What is required is greater ability to move more flexibly and promptly than government agencies, foundations can be instrumental in pioneering educational developments and seizing fresh opportunities not readily covered by government programs.

American private business enterprises also have a stake in international imports in educating Americans and sending world forces in its interests. Through research enterprises perform service high value to private business.

Because of this, they should aid in planning and supporting the universities' international components.

In order to gain the maximum potential from these resources, American universities and colleges must provide greater tribute in making their educational contributions in a field of vital importance to every citizen.

Darn that Captain

Dear Editor:
Dear Mr. I. Bassett being to use the brain which he so plausibly suggests has been endowed, he might be asked to inquire whether or not the writer is qualified to support his claim for the picture. Had he not his rather rank piece of chasm which might have been due to those responsible.

I note in paragraph 10 that "During much of the day over 10,000 people pass them every hour on the a/c indicating that -whoever the caption has made him - and am not Mr. Histi."

It is my opinion that Bassett would take it upon himself to read the article and be content to search or which to criticize anyone.

DANCE DECOR—Caricatures of Twiddle Dum and Twiddle Dee from "Alice In Wonderland" will decorate dance halls for Friday and Saturday night's Winter Carnival Dance. Examining sketch are (l-r) Betsy Cannon, Kathy Barnes, and John Stone.

Alpha Phi Increases Number Speech Group Initiates Nine

Nineteen Brigham Young University men have been awarded membership by national headquarters of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity.

They were initiated by the BYU Chapter Saturday in a ceremony under the direction of Tom Williams, membership chairman. Following the ceremony the men were honored at a banquet and dance.

Paul Feit, Student Coordinator, was made an honorary member while the following were initiated into regular membership:

John Williams, J.S. Wright, Tom Powell, Dean Vest, John Tovar, G.W. Norton, Max Lloyd, Ronald Levendoski, Doug Larson, Ronald Humphries, and Richard Hooper.

Others are Dennis Hoover, Noel Clandland, Michael Benning, Roy Anderson, and Dan Allen.

The ceremony terminated a nine week pledge period in which the men participated in service projects for the school, attended classes on various subjects such as parliamentary procedures, and enjoyed several social events.

The pledge class also contributed a large blue and yellow banner bearing the Greek letters of the campus chapter.

Speech Group

Nine students recently became associate members of Alpha Gamma Chapter of Sigma Alpha Eta, speech and hearing professional organization.

An initiation dinner was held to honor the students at the home of Dr. Alonzo J. Morley. The following students were initiated.

Sean McCandless, Avery Risks, Diane Penneworth, Judy Wadmond Christensen, Everett Dayton, John De Palma, and Ralph Haws.

Unique decorations will be featured at "Alice In Winterland," Friday and Saturday's Winter Carnival Dance, according to dance chairman David Larsen.

As couples enter either the Fieldhouse or the Franklin School ballroom they will find themselves in a "wonderland." Twelve foot high caricatures will depict characters from the famous Lewis Carroll book.

"It will look like a freak snowstorm has taken place," said Larsen, explaining that everything will be given a winter setting.

Twiddle Dum and Twiddle Dee will be riding sleighs; the proverbial Cheshire Cat will be equipped with ear muffs; the Caterpillar will sport a sled on each of his six legs; the Mad Hatter will carry out the whims of the evening. Entertainment will be provided by the school unit.

In the Fieldhouse the Queen's Garden will be represented by large-size playing cards attached by cheesecloth drapings to a large crown in the center of the floor. Snow flowers covered with snow will be seen throughout both halls.

Adding to the decor will be festoons, streamers, and hanging paper hearts. The refreshment booth will resemble a Mad Hatter's Tea Party with hats scattered over it.

A large mirror ball will hang from the center of the hall ceiling. The ornament will be revolving and spotlight will focus on it. Artificial snowflakes made from plaster of paris and sparkling with glitter will also hang from the ceilings.

An added attraction for the event will be the appearance before Saturday night's dance, of the King Sister's popular Captain recording artist.

Tickets at one dollar per couple are now on sale each day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Smith Family Living Center, Smith Hall, and Eyring Science Center. Dress for the dance is sport clothes.

Brigham Young University fieldhouse officials made a cool move last week and filled in one of the football schedule open dates with the number 11 team in the nation at the end of last season, Oregon State.

With Oregon State, the Cougars will play four inter-sectional battles this fall. The other competition will come from San Jose and Hawaii here in Provo, and North Texas State away. Oregon State will also be an away game. Good luck. All we need now is a coach.

Wintertime is time for the bears to hibernate and most of the summer sportmen to sit back and talk about what they did last season and what they are going to do next year. Well . . . it's nearly that way. Actually wintertime is a period of training just as much as any other part of the year, and the new extension to the fieldhouse is a "blessing from heaven" to the warm-weather-sportmen.

Memphis State's basketball team brought a writer along with them who was kind enough to explain to the people of Memphis in the Commercial Appeal of that city all about the problems of Brigham Young University and its basketball and football teams. The problem? Mission calls.

IN HIS LEAD, Charles Yow said that "Brigham Young's athletic problem is peculiar, but one it will not solve." Well spoken. Mission calls are a problem to our coaches here.

Speaking about Bob Skousen, who is currently in Australia on a mission and who will return to the Y next year, he adds, "When he does (return), he may or may not be a better basketball player. But he will, in many ways, be a better man."

WE AGREE, AND also we agree with Mr. Love and his next comment which may really get at the heart of one of our "problems" here on the football field.

"The loss of time in the mission field does not seem to hurt basketball players as much as it does football players. There is something about teaching love of your fellow man that just does not seem to go with knocking his brains out on the football field."

We will not solve our problem today or tomorrow, but as has been suggested before, can a mission call be put off just the same way as a draft deferment is issued?

Skyline Competition Tightens

BYU hosts the Air Force in non-conference play Friday.

BYU YOUNG UNIVERSITY did itself matching against Utah, in a contest of the "haves" and "haven'ts" of the conference against each other.

COLORADO clamped a tight on BYU Friday night to down the visiting Cats, 73-49, and again on Utah State Saturday, to come up with a 61-44 victory over the Farmers.

Colorado State travels this weekend to take on the Lobos of New Mexico, in search of their fourth straight conference win.

Thursday the Utes waxed New Mexico 111-66, as Denver took it 101-86, and 44 from the Montana Grizzlies. Their partners, Utah turned a stubborn Pioneer attack 95-62, and the Grizzlies raced to a 63-56 Skyline win over the Lobos.

Friday the Grizzlies go against the Utes in the "swimmers'" then and then take on the leading Utes Saturday.

DENVER plays non-conference rival, Colorado State College. Team statistics show clearly why Utah and Colorado State University are tied for the conference lead at this stage of the race, with a perfect 5-0 record.

UTAH leads the team-wise figures with 97.0 ppg, while CSU holds a strong advantage in the defensive figures, giving up a stingy 57.0 ppg.

To start the year, the two top teams are, CSU's ppg over all, over its three opponents is 24.6 points while Utah's stands at 24.3 points.

Attention Status Seekers...

Enterprising Students Organize Y Fraternity

by Afton Johnson
Universe Feature Writer
Students interested in joining a fraternity at Brigham Young University may now do so.

Signa Phi Nothing is the name of this new co-educational organization. Its purpose is to give individuals social status, to support campus functions and compete in sports.

The "unorganized organization," as it is called by charter president Karl Christian, meets casually each week just before MIA so members may visit.

EACH WEDNESDAY the four charter presidents meet at the matinee dance to plan the group's activities for the week end.

Dick Dutton, Henry Leevold, Lakewood Moon and Karl Christian comprise the four charter prefixes and each has equal status. Every Signa Phi Nothing fraternity member is an honorary president.

This enterprising organization sells status from memory and friendly persuasion. Nothing is mandatory except initiation.

INITIATION for members, male and female alike, is to abstain from smooching for two weeks.

President Christian said, "the purpose of this limiting action is to encourage new members to become better acquainted with various personalities while doing."

Just $1.00 covers the cost of joining the Signa Phi Nothings. This fee also buys a safety pin, which is the official fraternity pin. They must be purchased at the student book store. Thus they do their bit to bolster trade among the students at BYU.

MEMBERSHIP cards will be printed on the back of the "Film Favorites" schedule. This makes members aware of movies available on campus so that they can support them.

ONCE A MONTH the four charter presidents meet at the matinee dance to plan the group's activities for the week end.

THE GROUP is currently conservative. However, any student who asks to join and complies with the initiation requirements is eligible for membership.

Further information will be supplied by advertisements in the Daily Universe.

THESE AD advertisements are yet another effort, by the fraternity, to support the money-making business concerns on campus." elucidated Christian.

Line Crashing A Rude Practice Says Jr. AMS

by Berrey Parker
Junior AMS Council

Confucius say, "He who will not find rightful place at end of line should find rightful place at end of rope."

The Jr. AMS Fresh Council does not believe in hanging people, but they would like to ask for the cooperation of the students to stop line crashing.

STANDING in line is a necessary evil. No one likes it and it just isn't fair to the people standing in line to have other people crowd in front.

There are three places that crowding in line are especially prevalent. They are: while lining up to get tickets for ball games, while waiting in line at the cafeterias, and while waiting in line at registration.

SOME OF the comments students have made about crowding in line are:

Gene Thorne, senior: "Crowding in line just isn't ethical in our society."

Roger Hogan, freshman: "I think crowding in line is a degrading action that should stop."

Joe Morino, senior: "I think those who crowd in line are discourteous and have no respect for their fellow students or the honor system."

ALL STUDENTS have had the experience of standing in a long line at one time or another whether at a ball game, or at the cafeteria or at registration. When someone pushes in, the students behind that person become a little bitter.

The act of line crashing is in itself very discourteous and annoying. It certainly should have no place on the Brigham Young University campus.

DISCONTINUANCE of this type of rudeness will encourage a better spirit among members of the student body. It also will be more in keeping with University standards.

Let us all cooperate to alleviate line crashing.

PHILOSOPHIC WARNING: Berrey Parker and Doug, Junior AMS Council members lead off the "Hang Line Crashers" campaign by setting up the first poster.
